A Model Southern Community & Great Place to do Business, Visit and Live
The City of Tuskegee Welcomes You!

Thank you for your interest in our community!

One of Tuskegee’s Business Strengths is its location in the middle of the “Hottest” Industrial Corridor (I-85) in the state of Alabama.

Why you should choose The City of Tuskegee

Situated mid-way between the bustling sectors of Montgomery, AL, Auburn/Opelika, AL, and West Point, GA, Tuskegee is ideally suited to serve the ever expanding Automotive Manufacturers (Kia and Hyandai) as well as others located along this corridor.

Ground, Rail, and Air Transportation is easily accessed.

Tuskegee offers industrial, commercial, and retail opportunities within a 5-minute drive from busy Interstate-85 (Exit 38).

The Tuskegee Commerce Park, 2 minutes from Exit 38, has sites ranging from 15 areas to 20 areas available for immediate development.

Retail- The Tuskegee Community is currently under served. With a growing Tuskegee University student base, strong tourism traffic in addition to its permanent population, the community needs more retail choices to satisfy its students, tourists, workforce, and general population.

There is ample room downtown and nearby for many more “name” retailers as well as for budding entrepreneurial “start-ups”. There is a special need for more restaurants, full service fuel/gas stations, specialty retailers, and transportation services in the downtown area.
Then (History) and Now (Where We Are Headed)

(Adapted from the Tuskegee Comprehensive Plan 2010)

The City of Tuskegee has both Rich History and Tangible Assets that make the community an ideal place to do business, visit, and live.

Then (History): Adapted from Tuskegee 2010 Comprehensive Plan

The Alabama Legislature officially incorporated The City of Tuskegee in February 1833. The Legislature created Macon County earlier in 1832 and Tuskegee was selected to be the County Seat. Other incorporated municipalities in Macon County include the Towns of Franklin, Notasulga, and Shorter.

The area’s rich soils and hot climate have always been well suited to crop production, and the area was utilized for plantation lands during the Antebellum Period.

In 1881, The Alabama Legislature passed a bill establishing the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute (now Tuskegee University) and appropriated $2,000 per year for faulty salaries Booker T. Washington, the institution’s first faculty member, began classes on July 4, 1881. In 1896, George Washington Carver joined the faculty and subsequently revolutionized agricultural development in the south.

Following World War I, the Veteran’s Facility (later named the Veterans Administration Medical Center) was established on land donated by Tuskegee Institute (now Tuskegee University). The Hospital (now renamed Central Alabama Veteran’s Health Care System (CAVHCS)- East Campus) was the first, and only VA facility built to exclusively serve African-American Veterans. The facility now serves veterans of all races and is a major employer in the city.

Tuskegee received national attention during World War II as a training center for the first African-American flying unit (now referred to as “The Tuskegee Airmen”). In 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt ordered the Air Corps to establish an African-American unit (The 99th Pursuit Squadron). Tuskegee Institute was selected as the Training Ground because of its commitment to aeronautical training in the form of facilities, instructors, and climate for its endeavor. Tuskegee became the center for African-American aviation for the remainder of World War II.
Prior to World War II the Tuskegee and Macon County economies were essentially agricultural based. After the war this shifted to a more diverse economic base with much less dependence upon agriculture and more dependence upon Education (Tuskegee University), Government (City and County), Health Related Services (Veteran’s Administration), and Tourist Traffic at its Historic sites.

Now: Where are we headed?

After a period of slow or no growth, The City made the decision to significantly grow its economy using proven economic development initiatives and approaches including the following:

a.) Attraction of manufacturing jobs to the 100 acre Tuskegee Commerce Park at I-85 (Exit 38)
b.) Attraction of major and popular retail businesses to the Downtown and nearby shopping areas.
c.) Expansion of the already thriving Tourist base. d.) Significantly increasing the permanent population base of the Tuskegee Community e.) Establishment and Management of a Small Business Incubator to encourage and support entrepreneurs.

All of this works toward our goal of making Tuskegee a great place to do business, visit, or live!
